

Course Description

Key concepts of micro-economic theory. Key concepts of macro-economy theory. Economic analysis of policy issues. Poverty, public policy and public schools. Methods of allocating economic resources. Welfare goals and choices with reference to education. Tuition tax credits. Consumer behavior equilibrium and government intervention. The theory of distribution and pricing of factors of production. Consequential assessment and entology with reference to education. Economic behavior and moral sentiments. The theorem of second best, and its applications to education.